

CENTRAL BANK PLANT ATTACKED BY GLASS

Proposal Termed Repugnant
as Senate Debate on Measure Opens.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—A vigorous assault by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, on the "repugnant" of central bank proposals to the American financial system today opened senate debate on the administration banking bill.

The 77-year-old Virginia democrat warned Senators Nye and Borah and other advocates of a government-owned central bank that such a proposal was "so repugnant to the original purpose of the federal reserve system" that those who had sponsored it in the past "found it convenient to abandon their indefensible attitude."

Surrounded by a large group of attentive colleagues and with financial leaders in and out of the government looking on from the galleries, the former treasury secretary also cautioned against further radical changes in the bill. Its main provisions would give a reorganized reserve board majority control over the nation's credit.

Concessions Necessary.

He said that to produce a unanimous report from the banking committee and to "harmonize radical differences" it was necessary to make concessions—even concessions of convictions.

Although central bank and inflation amendments will be offered, democratic leaders predicted the bill would pass this week or early next week almost as now written.

Glass said it had been demonstrated time and again that "this country does not want a central bank even in the skillful guise of the so-called Aldrich bill."

He asserted that both the Woodrow Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt platforms opposed such a scheme and its place there was created a "regional reserve system upon the theory that the 12 regions established would know better how to manage their own credit and respond to the requirements of their own people."

"Every suggestion of a central bank was abandoned," he added, "because of its obvious repugnance to everything that we had done."

Discussing the compromise provision constituting a federal reserve board of seven and five representatives of the reserve banks at the open market committee to control reserve bank buying and selling of government bonds, Glass said the government had "never considered as much as one dollar to any federal reserve bank."

Plan Called Unreasonable.

"To say that the regional banks supplying all the funds of the reserve system should be completely and literally controlled by a central board set up originally as merely supervisory is to me the most unreasonable thing that could be suggested."

The house bill makes the federal reserve board the open market committee and allows the five bank representatives to serve on it only in an advisory capacity. The senate bill would give the latter a minority voice in determining policy.

Glass said this was a concession because it "never was intended" that the open market committee should adopt policies for the regional banks to "finance the government," but was for the purpose of "building up a market for eligible paper based upon agriculture, commerce and industry."

He said the reserve banks have $2,600,000,000 of government securities in their portfolios "and haven't got any use for a dollar of it and can't sell a dollar of it without demoralizing the market."

Muscles, Hearts of Animals Injured By Large Doses of Cod Liver Oil

Herbivorous Mammals Sometimes Succumb to Large Amounts of Vitamin Carrier, But Mothers Advised There Is "No Cause for Alarm."

ITHACA, N. Y., July 24.—(AP)—Muscle and heart injuries, and sometimes death from feeding large amounts of cod liver oil to herbivorous animals was announced today in the Cornell Bulletin, of Cornell University. Medical authorities elsewhere indicated, however, there was no cause for "alarm" respecting humans.

The report summarized seven years' experiments, made in the animal nutrition laboratory at Cornell, by Dr. L. L. Madsen and Professors C. M. McCay and L. A. Maynard.

The animals were goats, sheep, guinea pigs and rabbits. Their muscles degenerated. Paralysis resulted. Heart was affected with evidence of fatty changes. Livers became fatty.

The harm was traced to an unidentified substance in cod liver oil. This "fraction" is not associated with the vitamins, for which the oil is given. It probably can be removed, the reports stated, and apparently is largely removed in cod liver oil concentrates.

The writers state their results have direct bearing on cod liver oil in human nutrition.

D.R. URGES TAXATION ON CHARITABLE GIFTS

agent throughout the state had orders that if there was to be a chicken supper or a hospital benefit drive he should be the first to subscribe.

The company president explained, Mr. Roosevelt said, this was to buy up good will. Mr. Roosevelt added he did not think companies should buy good will through gifts.

Representative McCormack, Democrat, Massachusetts, a member of the house ways and means committee, recently introduced a bill to let corporations give up to 5 per cent of their net income to charities. He declined to discuss the measure, now pending before the ways and means committee, but gave no indication that he had changed his mind.

Approval Is Seen.

At the same time, it was reported by another committee member that the democrats on that committee already have agreed to accept a bill which such a plan in the new tax bill.

The welfare chiefs who joined in issuing a formal statement disagreeing with the President were Allen J. Burns, president of the National Council of Community Chests and Councils, Inc.; Monsignor R. Marcellus Wagner, of Cincinnati, president of the National Conference of Catholic Charities, and William J. Shroder, of Cincinnati, president of the National Council of Jewish Federations.

He said: "Private philanthropies of the nation are faced with loss of means to share with the government the burden of caring for the needy. They are reluctant to accept the outright donation. Instead, we agreed upon an arrangement whereby they donated the Foundation's electric distribution system to our company without cost. As a result, the company stood the expense of rehabilitation and, in addition, the Foundation was saved the loss it had previously incurred in operating the distribution system."

"These circumstances are not reflected in any criticism of Mr. Roosevelt. They do, however, provide an illustration of the type of worthy causes to which many of our contributions have been made. They also, in light of Mr. Roosevelt's statements today, provide an illustration of the fact that, quite often, good will is not gained by our efforts to assist worthwhile agencies."

Pool Instituted.

The poll of the committee democrats was instituted by Chairman Doughton as a result of insistence by the President that the "principle" of taxing corporation incomes according to size must be recognized.

The count this morning was reported to stand 8 to 6 for that principle with four members not tabulated. Three of these opposed the idea and one was for it, it was added by a committee member talking privately, indicating a possible tie vote.

In his message to congress outlining his plans for a "wider distribution" of wealth and income, the President had suggested that the present flat 15 3/4 per cent tax on corporation incomes be replaced with a graduated tax ranging from 10 3/4 to 16 3/4 per cent, depending on the size of the income.

The National Association of Manufacturers and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States have argued that a graduated tax would penalize investors in big companies as against those in small ones.

Small Range Sought.

There was talk today about the possibility of including both the income and the graduated income levy, however, to a much smaller range than that suggested by the President.

Summers flew thick that because of the sharp disagreement between the President or some of his advisers and the committee democrats the bill would be put off on the ground that an agreement would be impossible.

Democratic leaders, however, insisted—and with emphasis—that some part of a bill would be enacted by both house and senate before congress adjourns.

In today's ways and means committee discussions another understanding was reached: that the new taxes on individual incomes and corporation incomes or excess profits would become operative on income and profits for the current calendar year.

ARKWRIGHT RECALLS WARM SPRINGS DONATION

Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Company, who was in New York city on business trip, last night made the following statement through his office in Atlanta:

In his press conference at Washington today, President Roosevelt made objection to the Georgia Power Company's contribution of a law which would effectively block all such contributions by putting a tax on them. In his statement he referred to a conversation he had with the president of a public utility company in a southern state on the subject of such donations.

"I do not know that Mr. Roosevelt's statements refer to me, but I believe they do. I had such a conversation with him, and the Georgia Power Company does make numerous contributions to charitable, civic and general welfare funds and agencies."

"Most certainly, we do not make such contributions for the purpose stated by Mr. Roosevelt—to 'buy up good will' in our conversation. Neither is it our policy to subscribe to every 'chicken dinner' in the state."

"We seek to gain good will by giving good service to our customers, by low rates, by considerate treatment, and by living up to our company slogan, 'A Citizen Wherever We Serve.' As a part of our citizenship, it is not only our privilege, but it is our duty to assist, financially and otherwise, in any movement for the general welfare of the community."

"Briefly, our company policy is that if a movement is for the general welfare and if it has the general support of the public, this company will support it."

SLAYER'S SWEETHEART QUAZED IN DROWNING

Ether Magill Tells Police
She Received Money From Newell Sherman.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 24.—(UP)—Three-hour questioning of Ether Magill, 17-year-old bespectacled factory girl, tonight disclosed that she received money from Newell P. Sherman, 26, charged with the drowning of his wife.

Newell told police he drowned the mother of his two children for love of Miss Magill. She promptly said she despised Newell and never had been in love with him.

Hint of a planned elopement of the pair to the Midwest was injected into the case tonight by Prosecutor Alfred B. Cendella, who nevertheless reiterated he believed the girl was innocent in the killing.

"There has been a hint of plans to elope to the Midwest," he said, refusing to elaborate further.

Sherman admitted he took his wife Alice for a canoe ride, deliberately upset the craft and allowed his wife to drown in Lake Umbagog.

Miss Magill tonight told Cendella she deposited $21 of Sherman's money, with money of her own, in her account in the Whittinsville Savings Bank on July 11.

Official confirmation of the report that Sherman gave Miss Magill money to elope with her, along with the rumored plans for an elopement, seemed in contradiction with the girl's indignation statement on Monday that she had no use for Sherman.

But the prosecutor's pains in stressing the girl's guiltlessness in the Whittinsville girl were taken to indicate a conviction that, if Ether had ever really discussed marriage with Sherman as he has indicated, it was only on condition that he get a legal divorce.

Sherman, held without bail in Worcester county jail, is expected to plead insanity.

Conferees in Break-Up.

Meanwhile, a new charge of "administration pressure" on house members to gain compulsory abolition of "unnecessary" holding companies accompanied a sharp breakup of senate-house conferees on the utility bill.

The conferees broke up after three hours of discussion, with each side straightening out differences in the utility bill of which the compulsory abolition clause is the main bone of contention—broke up after three hours of discussion, with each side straightening out differences in the utility bill.

Representatives Huddleston, Cooper, Rogers of Ohio, and Holmes, republican, Massachusetts, voiced objections to the presence of Thomas Corcoran, RFC counsel, and Dozier Devane, solicitor general, in the conferees. Both Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, and Representative Rayburn, Democrat, Texas, of the conferee committee, were reluctant to talk with the lobbyist, but Huddleston said afterward:

"I'm not trying to block the bill, and am anxious to do everything I can to help bring out a good bill. But these fellows are coming in here as executive or wide open, and we ought to be relieved of this administration pressure so we as house members can go ahead and work to uphold the public position."

The conferees recessed until Friday, without action on the bill.

The house rules committee, meanwhile, announced resumption of its hearings tomorrow, the two of those engaged in the battle and exclusive, too, of a contribution of uncertain amount to the Edison Electric Institute.

That all expenditures for this purpose were charged to operating expenses and would in the last analysis be paid by the rate payer, P. P. and L.'s customers, the consumer.

That $192 was paid to Peter Molyneux of the Texas Weekly for radio program on the subject of the bill, and that T. P. & L. advertised in that publication.

DAYLIGHT BURGLARY AROUSES NEIGHBORS

Police, called to the scene of a daring daylight burglary by neighbors, at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning, arrested George Thomas, 16, negro, of 230 Jackson street, N. E., on charges of suspicion of burglary.

They reported that they found a burglar in the house of J. W. Strubling, at 38 Lombardy way, N. E. Mrs. N. L. Finch, of 42 Lombardy way, called police when, attracted by the noise of a falling object, she saw a negro in the neighboring house.

Radio Patrolman J. E. Sims went to the rear of the home and saw a negro climbing out of a window. He arrested Thomas. Officer J. E. Smith reported that he heard the burglar running, and entered the house, finding the clothes. The Strubling family is out of town.

tions involving on all signatories of the Kellogg pact outlawing war. Quoted as to Britain's relations to the conflict between Italy and Ethiopia, he replied:

"His majesty's government will always be ready to co-operate with the United States government in seeking to preserve peace."

The British government meanwhile appeared to be exerting every power at its command to avert hostilities between Italy and Ethiopia and it was understood that the British government would attempt to force the council meeting of the League of Nations at Geneva next week to take a definite stand against the brewing war.

British statements were represented as determined the League should not "legalize" the war through half-measures or no actions at all.

"The Ethiopian government was said to be endeavoring to arrange credits in London with which to pay for war material, although it was stated there has been no move to obtain an official loan."

Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, told the house of commons the British government was treating Italy and Ethiopia alike on the question of arms sales, had not granted export licenses to either for the last four months, and "there had been no move to obtain an official loan for arms in the last four months."

ITALY TO MAKE SOLDIERS OF PEASANTS

ROME, July 24.—(AP)—Italy moved today to make soldiers of her youths between 18 and 21 years old after the Italian army had been ordered to Great Britain's intervention in the Italo-Ethiopian quarrel.

A war ministry order provided that youths of 18, upon graduation from the regular army, would be sent to the front before reaching the conscription age of 21, should receive regular military training, thus becoming reserves for the regular army.

The graduate assumes obligations of military service which he will satisfy, according to the scope of organizations of the regime, until he is called to actual service.

Newspaper pronouncements, assailing Britain especially in connection with the League of Nations Council in special session to consider the African controversy, included an editorial in La Tribuna which characterized British policy as "contradictory, ambiguous and concrete hostile to Italy."

Although dispatches from London said the council probably would be convened July 26, Italian government officials said they were still ignorant of any such move.

Anti-Japanese articles disappeared from the editorial columns, and they had appeared. The newspapers published accounts of Japanese activities in China and Mongolia but without reference to the League of Nations' interests and policies in connection with the African issue.

LEAGUE AGREES TO MEET JULY 29

PARIS, July 24.—(UP)—Premier Pierre Laval and League of Nations Secretary Joseph Avenol agreed today to summon the League council on July 29 to consider the Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

Their suggestions will be submitted to the council president, Maxim Litvinov, secretary general, who has asked councilors to be ready for an emergency session.

Diplomats tonight wondered whether Italy would attend the council in view of Britain's determination to call for a showdown on ability of the League to maintain peace.

After Avenol has heard from Litvinov he will inform councilors of the council's decision.

He conferred today with Tecla Hawariat, Ethiopian minister to Paris and delegate to the League, and the council make a definite decision regarding the East African conflict.

Avenol also studied the question of arms shipments to Ethiopia.

The League secretary of the Djibouti to Addis Ababa railway said it will continue to accept shipments clearing customs and openly marked "arms."

He confirmed reports of increasingly heavy munitions shipments over their East African line.

The League secretary may submit to its council reports Japan is rushing to Ethiopia through the French port of Djibouti, it was learned in Geneva.

The boy squirmed nervously in the witness chair and kept repeating, "I didn't intend to kill him."

"I thought he was going to kill me and I hit him with my knife," Snow said, adding he was left-handed and pulled the knife from his pocket.

"I didn't know I had hurt him," he explained, "for Holt kept throwing rocks at me after I had struck him with the knife." Snow said he weighed 87 pounds at the time of the slaying.

George M. Snow, 60-year-old father of the defendant, said he sent his son to a neighbor's for cold tablets, and that late on Sunday he was in the field and burst out crying:

"They are rocking me. I had to do it."

James Holt, father of the slain boy, described his son as a "wildly, sickly boy, weighing about 95 pounds."

Flying Automobile Passes Tests, Said To Be Foolproof, Economical

Government Observers Watch as Stubby Coupe With 40-Foot Wing Spread Goes Through Paces; "Plane" Gets 13-12 Miles to Gallon and Can Reach High Speed.

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—(UP)—The dream of air-minded men, a "flying automobile," bounced jauntily down the runway of Los Angeles municipal airport today, leaped into the air like a chicken going over a fence and soared away into the sky—a stubby, four-wheeled coupe mounted on a 40-foot wingspread.

Waldo Waterman, tall, pipe-smoking designer, sat in the glass cage of the tailless airplane while Department of Commerce officials, headed by John H. Geisse, chief of aerial development at Washington, watched the weird craft go through its paces.

It was the first public performance of the plane, which has undergone secret tests for six months on a dry lake bed in the Mojave desert, near Rosamond, Cal.

Waterman regards his plane as only the precursor of the perfect "flying automobile" with detachable wings which can be laid away in the hangar while the stubby body is driven home to the garage.

Before a gallery of government observers, the inventor taxied his plane out of its hangar unaided, drove it, bumping over a strip of ploughed field, its rigid, pump-spring landing gear taking the rough ground like a tractor.

Wheeling it on its wing-length, he set it roaring down the gray asphalt runway for 100 yards, when it gave an unexpected lurch and mounted a steep climb straight into the air.

Climbing swiftly it circled the airport, its long, V-shaped monoplane wings making it look like a soaring eagle. It plummeted earthward, landed lie utterance concerning the probe, which was brought on by Longino's charges of waste and extravagance in the administration of county affairs by the majority faction of the county commission. Longino heads the minority faction.

Commissioner Johnson said he told the committee yesterday that he was making public the subject of his testimony in fairness to "Commissioners Adams and Almond. First priority of the Collins charge did not include names."

Dr. Adams was in session with the special committee for three hours yesterday, concerning information about the administration of the county affairs by the majority faction of the county commission. Longino heads the minority faction.

Longino was questioned in detail Tuesday concerning information about charges against the administration of Dr. Adams and Commissioners Johnson and Almond.

The tax assessment situation was understood to have been discussed and a fair equalization program in adjusting assessments be carried out. Assessments are being raised this year in effort to meet the increasing expenditures of the majority faction. Longino was understood to have told the committee.

Commissioner Johnson returned yesterday from Sea Island beach, where he has been vacationing.

Following his brief appearance before the committee, Johnson, Dr. Adams and Almond held a private conference in the office of the county commission but no information was given out.

Later, Johnson, George Mathieson, chief of the county police, and a number of other county officials, conferred in the chief's private office.

Witnesses Reluctant.

Due to the discouragement of grand jury and its foreman, George W. McCarty, concerning information about the tax assessment situation, witnesses appearing before the special investigating committee have been reticent to divulge the questions which they were required to answer.

Longino was understood to have named five "parasites" or employees holding useless jobs, in addition to the three he had previously named, but said that to a higher authority, a private conference in the office of the county commission but no information was given out.

R. I. Barge, chairman of the committee, said the next meeting will be held tomorrow afternoon following the regular session of the grand jury.

Though he declined to discuss the investigation, he said yesterday that the information being given the committee by the commissioners was "interesting."

A number of department heads are expected to be called before the group at the next meeting. They were to have appeared yesterday but Dr. Adams' conference with the committee occupied their attention most of the day.

PROCESSING TAX LIENS FILED AGAINST MILLS

Processing tax liens against two Georgia mills—the Georgia Duck and Cottage Mill of Seaside, and the Piedmont Cotton Mills of Egan—were filed in federal district court today by the office of collector of internal revenue.

The liens, the first reported filed since temporary injunctions against collection of processing taxes were granted four years ago at a hearing in Macon last Saturday, were described by Paul Cobb, deputy collector, as "just a matter of routine."

NEW BONUS PROPOSALS GAIN NEW IMPETUS

Issue Forming Rapidly Into Double Hurdle for "Must"
Legislative List.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—The bonus issue today was forming rapidly into a double hurdle for administration "must" legislation remaining before congress.

Drives for both inflationary and anti-inflationary measures for immediate payment of adjusted compensatory gratifications were being mapped in the senate.

Senator McCarran, Democrat, Nevada, said inflationists have determined to press the $2,000,000,000 "new currency" bill, vetoed by President Roosevelt, as a "rider" to the new tax measure.

Meanwhile, Senator Steiwer, republican, Oregon, said that if opportunity offers, he will propose a non-inflationary bonus plan as amendment either to the tax bill or one of the other pieces of legislation which the administration desires enacted at this session.

"It is my hope," the Oregon senator said, "that we can get the bonus paid during this session without resorting to inflation."

While refusing to discuss details of his plan for publication at this time, Steiwer predicted that it would receive the support of the American Legion.

Senate inflationary bonus advocates, led by Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, have held several meetings recently to discuss their strategy.

One proposal reported to have met with much support would modify the Patman bill by providing for retirement of the new currency at the rate of 3 or 4 per cent a year.

Although administration leaders in the senate were cheered by the almost solid support given them by democrats in motions to table tariff "riders" introduced during consideration of the A. A. amendments, McCarran said the senate would be confronted with a different situation on the bonus issue.

ARGENTINE LEADERS WILL MEET IN DUEL

Buenos Aires, July 24.—(AP)—In a bitter aftermath of the murder of Senator Enzo Bordabehere in the senate chamber, Minister of Finance Pedro Pablo Kuczynski and Senator Delatorre tonight were formally pledged to meet in a duel.

Unless their friends can dissuade them, the frail young Pando and the elderly bearded Delatorre will fight with pistols at dawn tomorrow, probably on the grounds of the military academy.

WAYCROSS AREA SEES LARGE TOBACCO CROP

Best Season in Several Years Predicted as Two Warehouses Plan To Open.

WAYCROSS, Ga., July 24.—(P)—With an increased acreage in Ware and surrounding counties, tobacco farmers of the Waycross area are expecting a profitable season. Markets open August 1.

Recent rains, following an extended dry period, threatened damage to the late part of the crop, but there was only a small amount of leaf left in the fields, most of which was of the "tips" variety, or an inferior grade.

"The damage hasn't been as heavy as was first feared and I am looking for the best crop in several seasons," said Dan Cowart of the Fairfax section.

J. W. Bunn, a large planter of the Telmore section, said "the leaf is going to show a far better quality than last year and we expect to make money on our crop."

Frederick Voigt, a planter living between Waycross and Ware, said the tobacco has cured prettier and will be carried to market in better condition than in past seasons.

Belief that the crop will bring good returns was expressed by Dr. R. J. Heyde, Ware county agricultural agent. He said practically all of the quality leaf had been cured before the rainy season set in.

Waycross is making preparations for "a season of service to the tobacco growers." Civic leaders have named a citizens' committee, composed of E. K. Bennett, chairman; L. B. Harrell, W. N. Smith and R. B. Zachry to lead the movement.

Two large warehouses have been made ready for the opening. The Waycross tobacco warehouse will be operated as in past years by Crabtree & Barron, who also own warehouse holdings at Owensboro, Ky. The Farmers Tobacco Warehouse will be operated by Laykin & Pruitt. Mr. Laykin is a prominent Brantley county grower and Mr. Pruitt is a warehouse man of many years' experience. He has interests in Petersburg, Va.

Warehousemen express confidence that Waycross will exceed last year's market figures by a wide margin.

W. H. LOVETT OPPOSES RATE SET FOR GINNING

DUBLIN, Ga., July 24.—(P)—W. H. Lovett, business man, farmer and operator of a number of cotton gins in this section of the state, in a statement here has expressed opposition to the action of the Georgia Cotton Ginners' Association in favoring a price of $4.50 per bale for ginning.

"I hope that this will not be compulsory as it would be very unfair to the farmers of this section and state," Mr. Lovett said.

71 Rattlesnakes Killed By Valdosta Naturalist

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 24.—(P)—Claude Godwin, Valdosta naturalist and taxidermist, said today he thought he had set some sort of a record as a rattlesnake killer.

Traveling from Lakeland to Valdosta recently, he said he saw a large rattlesnake on a roadside ditch and stopped to kill it. He found a mother snake and 71 little ones.

Godwin says he probably is the only person in this section ever to kill 72 rattlesnakes in less than 30 minutes. The young snakes, he said, were about the size and length of a lead pencil.

NO SPIDER HEROES

None at Macon Willing To

MACON, Ga., July 24.—(P)—The Macon Telegraph has a black widow spider but no reporters willing to take a chance.

Some time ago a Texas newspaperman tried to get one of the poisonous black widows to bite him to test out his ability to write about it.

When a printer on the local paper brought one of the spiders to the office reporters were invited to "become better acquainted with the beast."

There was no response and now the paper is offering the spider's bite to anyone.

So far there have been no takers.

BRIEFS ORDERED FILED IN ICE CREAM HEARING

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 24.—(P)—Judge A. L. Franklin today ordered briefs filed by Friday and promised an early decision in the case of the Wright Ice Cream Company of Gainesville against the Richmond County Department of Health.

The department, operating in the city of Augusta and rural areas, banned the sale of the Wright Company's cream on the grounds that the product is outside the 60-mile inspection area, and that Gainesville is not under the same standards of inspection as Augusta.

The department's action violates the free commerce clauses of the state laws.

BLAIRSVILLE, Ga., July 24.—Frank Nicholson, son of J. M. Nicholson of this place, has been appointed to an assistant professorship in the department of chemistry at the University of North Carolina.

Only 24 years of age, Nicholson is a graduate of Carson-Newman College, Jefferson City, Tenn., and for two years past has been a teaching fellow at the University of North Carolina, where he is working toward a doctor's degree in chemistry.

Nicholson's articles in the field of organic chemistry during the past year have received wide and favorable comment among scientific men.

TAX PAYMENT STAY GIVEN CIGAR FIRM

Processing Levy Halted by Federal Judge Deaver at Macon.

MACON, Ga., July 24.—(P)—A temporary injunction restraining W. E. Page, Georgia internal revenue collector, from attempting to collect $402.45 due in taxes for tobacco processed during the month of June was obtained in federal district court here this afternoon by the Cortez Cigar Company of Savannah.

Judge Bascom S. Deaver set the complaint for hearing at 9 o'clock Friday, August 2.

In the petition, the cigar company contends that the act under which a three-cent per pound processing tax is levied on tobacco is unconstitutional on grounds similar to those contained in other suits attacking the validity of the AAA.

While 100 Florida tobacco growers have a suit pending here in which they attack the constitutionality of the same act because of a levy on them for non-compliance with the acreage reduction, the Cortez action is the first in Georgia to be brought by a tobacco processor.

The case of John Holsten, CCC truck driver, placed on trial yesterday in the death last fall of Mrs. Prince Roy of Buford, who was killed in a collision of her car and a truck driven by Holsten, was given to the jury at 10 o'clock this afternoon, and tonight the jury was locked up for the night when a verdict had not been reported.

Robert Jarrard and Virgil Myers, charged with the shooting and subsequent death of Otis W. Wainwright, local taxi driver, on June 18, are expected to go on trial when court opens tomorrow.

WIFE BEATERS TO GET TERM SET BY VICTIM

SWAINSBORO, Ga., July 24.—(P)—When a man is convicted of beating his wife in the city court of Swainsboro, the judge will set a term for the future, the wife will be allowed to pass or suggest sentence.

Judge Alfred Herrington Jr., has decided.

The new rule was promulgated by Judge Herrington in a case involving this week. The judge said he would observe it in the future.

The model case was like this: A Swainsboro man, charged by his spouse with beating her while in a drunken condition, was arrested, jailed and waived jury trial to plead his case before Judge Herrington.

The hearing was delayed several hours because the judge granted the prosecutor's request that she be given time to "iron a shirt for my husband and fix him up so he'll look all right in court."

So, in his "Sunday best" the defendant appeared, pleaded not guilty and the court set a term for the future, including his wife's.

Declaring the man guilty of wife beating, the court turned to the woman, who made a request for leniency.

"Well, it looks like you have kissed and made up," said the judge. "They do in most cases. So I'm going to put into effect a new rule."

When the husband is convicted I'm going to let the wife sentence him or suggest punishment."

After hearing from the judge all the possible sentences her husband could receive, the woman said she thought a 12-month chain gang sentence and costs, with sentence suspended under a probation officer, would be "all right."

Plaintiff and defendant left the courtroom arm in arm.

SQUIRRELS AT MONROE STILL 35 TELEPHONES

MONROE, Ga., July 24.—(P)—Squirrels, which are presumed to gambol about in innocent play, put 35 telephones out of commission here.

The Georgia Continental Telephone Company said today it would require about $1,000 to replace one-inch lead cable in an area of about half a mile.

The squirrels chewed up the cable. Just how long it took the nut-grubbers to do the job is not known. It had been dry here for weeks, and the damage did not show up until heavy rains recently.

Complaints of interrupted service began to pour into the office of the company from 35 subscribers along Broad and McDaniel streets. Fred Yarbrough, superintendent, quickly found the cause of the trouble.

Beginning near the home of Mayor George Hammond on North Broad street, the lead cable has been chewed almost in two at varying intervals. The line was held together by small copper wires which the cable encased.

Telephone service was restored promptly but a greater portion of the half-mile of cable will have to be replaced.

The people along the route, and especially in Lumpkin county, are hoping the highway department will finish up the unopened stretch. They point out No. 9 has been "hung up on the hook" for about 20 years and that it is time for completion.

BANKHEAD VOTES TO BOLSTER COTTON

Senator Says Cheap Price
Unjustified; New Market Rules Are Foreseen.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(P)—A definite move to bolster a depressed cotton textile market was seen today in a statement by Senator Bankhead that there is no justification for cheaper cotton this season.

From another source came an assertion the senate agriculture committee's investigation of last March's break in the staple market probably will result in recommendations for market regulations to prevent drastic declines in the future.

Committee investigators have been at work here and in New York for several weeks. The break on March 11 sent the price of cotton tumbling to around 10 cents a pound, two cents below the value of government loans on last year's crop.

The price of cotton today was below the 12-cent point, and there have been fears of lower prices in the future, thus hurting the cotton textile goods market by discouraging present buying.

"It is reported buyers of cotton goods have largely withdrawn from the market because they believe there is a prospect for cheaper cotton and cheaper textile goods," Bankhead said in a formal statement.

"This is an unfortunate situation for the textile industry and is without justification. No one need expect cheaper cotton nor cheaper cotton goods this season, but on the contrary textile buyers should recognize the price is now probably at its lowest point."

Bankhead reiterated statements by members of the southern cotton bloc that continuation of 12-cent a pound loans on the 1935 crop was assured, and added it was hoped the loan will be 13 cents.

Announcement of the loan value, Bankhead said, will be made as soon as the AAA bill, which contains provisions for continuance of the Bankhead cotton-control act, reaches the President.

Meanwhile, senate agriculture committee investigators continued their study of last March's break. A source close to Chairman Smith disclosed instances where laxity in present market regulations tended to cause price depressions have been uncovered.

This source predicted the principal outgrowth of the investigation would be recommendations for changes in regulations of cotton markets.

UNREGISTERED BONDS CHARGED IN NEW SUIT

W. R. Biggers Files Second
Case Against Maryland
Trust Company Here.

Charging that the defendants failed to register bonds with the secretary of state, as required by law, W. R. Biggers, Atlanta architect, yesterday filed suit for $20,000 against the Union Trust Company of Maryland, the Atlanta Trust Company, the National Realty Management Company, the National Bond Holders' Corporation of Delaware, and Lewis Barber, of New York.

The suit, the second of the kind, was filed with the clerk of the Fulton superior court by Biggers through his attorney, Thomas L. Slappey. Alleging that the Union Trust Company of Maryland had failed to register as a corporation to do business in Georgia, and that it and its subsidiary companies did not register the bonds issued on an apartment house at 745 Boulevard, Biggers seeks to have the companies declared in violation of law of 1876, which requires registration of bonds on penalty of $500 fine for each violation.

Half the fine would accrue to the Board of Education of Fulton county and the other half to the informant, Biggers. He listed 40 bonds in his suit which he stated were never registered nor taxed by the state or county. He charged the companies and Lewis Barber with a "racket" in which the bond holder was paid only 30 cents on the dollar for his bond, although the parent company, the Union Trust, obtained a $3,500,000 bond from the government after assuring federal officials that the owners of the property would be protected. On the contrary, Biggers alleges in his suit, the property owners were sold out frequently when only a small amount remained to be paid.

Defendants were enjoined from changing the status of the property at 745 Boulevard until the case is heard. Judge E. E. Pomeroy signed the order.

GROUP TO DRAW PLANS ON CITY CHARITY FUND

Committee Seeks Means To Appropriate Money Direct to Charity Welfare Board.

Council's finance committee yesterday afternoon named a special subcommittee of six to draft resolutions to allow direct appropriations of about $40,000 annually to the Fulton County Board of Public Welfare instead of to about 20 various charitable institutions.

The resolutions will be submitted to the next regular meeting of the finance committee Tuesday, and a recommendation will be filed with council. Under the general understanding at yesterday's meeting, the board will be empowered to redistribute the fund on recommendation and with the co-operation of the Community Chest. The subcommittee is composed of W. Eugene Harrington and Frank H. Neely, representing the board; City Attorney Jack C. Savage and Councilman Aubrey Milam, chairman of the finance committee, representing the city and Guy Woolford and former Councilman James L. Wells, representing the Community Chest.

A report is to be ready for consideration at Tuesday's meeting of the finance committee. Previously, council refused to accede in a similar suggestion, but board and Chest officials believe greater economy and efficiency will be obtained through concentration of the expenditures and a larger number of persons will benefit from the distribution under such an arrangement.

Charge on Request of French Embassy.

NORFOLK, Va., July 24.—(P)—Two of the three Neidecker brothers, whose banking operations were conducted on an international scale, were arrested in Norfolk today and ordered taken to New York, where the third brother was arrested as a fugitive from the French capital and faces grand larceny charges in the closing of the Travelers' Bank of Paris.

Aubrey and George William Neidecker, met by police as they left the mail steamer City of Newport News at Norfolk today and charged with "swindling" and "breach of confidence." The State Department at Washington received from the French embassy a formal request for the detention of the Neidecker brothers with a view to extradition.

Meanwhile, in New York, B. Cole Neidecker, who was paroled in the custody of his attorney after his arrest yesterday, was told that all his assets in that city, including $210,000 in bank and brokerage accounts, were tied up by an order signed today by

Supreme Court Justice Edward R. Koch.

His hearing was set for Friday on a writ of habeas corpus, through which he hopes to void criminal charges, but the date for hearings for the other two brothers were not set immediately.

The decision to transfer them to New York was reached after a conference between attorneys for the defendants and Georges Fossier, the French consul here. Previously, local authorities had conferred by telephone with New York officials. A detective was assigned to accompany them to New York.

Aubrey Neidecker, assistant manager of the Paris bank, said the charges were "ridiculous" that a complete accounting could be made of "every penny" of the bank's money, and that given time the "bank's affairs can be straightened out."

LOOT OF $200 TAKEN BY BANDITS, BURGLARS
Filling Station Operator Loses $132.59 to Pair of Ride-Rob Men.

More than $200 was taken by burglars, ride-rob bandits and purse-snatchers early yesterday morning and late Tuesday night. One burglar suspect was arrested.

Clifford Martin, 29, operator of a filling station at 2040 Peachtree road, told officers Wednesday morning that bandits had forced his car to the curb while he was on his way to his home at 128 Third avenue, Decatur. The two men got in his automobile and forced him to drive to a spot near Emory University, where they took $132.59 from him. They ordered him to leave, and got in the bandit car which had trailed his car from Charles place and Briarcliff road. He reported the robbery to Atlanta police yesterday morning.

The C. L. Fain Grocery Company, 5 Produce row, was robbed of $40 by burglars who apparently had been locked in and were forced to break out.

Two negro boys snatched the purse of Mrs. Jennie Dean, of 677 Central avenue, S. W., as she was walking on Pryor street near Cumley street, S. W., she reported to officers. The purse contained a ring valued at $10 and some currency, she said.

Cigarettes valued at $25 were taken from the City Buffet, 373 Spring street, by burglars, police said.

A cash register bailed efforts of burglars who entered the store of C. E. Poole, at 687 Boulevard, N. E. The register was found in the rear of the store, unopened and the money safe.

An undetermined amount of clothing was taken from the home of J. T. De Lisselle, at 356 Fourth street, N. E., police were told, while neighbors of Baxter Eastburn, of 694 East Morningside drive, N. E., reported to police that the Eastburn home had been ransacked. The family is out of town.

BOND HEADS PLAN CITY HALL OFFICE

Campaign Chairmen To Map Drive With Sewer Committee of Council.

Campaign headquarters from which a citizens committee will wage a six weeks' fight to obtain ratification of the $1,775,000 bond issue for sewer and school improvements, will be established next week at the city hall, it was announced yesterday.

In the meanwhile, Jones H. Ewing and Mrs. R. Murdoch Walker, appointed by Mayor Key as co-chairmen of the citizens committee to urge citizens to vote in the election on September 18, will confer with members of the sewer committee of city council and will name chairmen of men's and women's committees in each of the 13 city wards.

The co-chairmen plan an intensive six weeks' "reef" drive, and both feel that lack of opposition to the bonds will make passage easy if the required number of citizens visit the polls.

WPA has agreed to expend about $9,000,000 in improvements if the bond election is ratified by the voters of the city.

Ewing yesterday appealed for co-operation of every voter in the undertaking and expressed himself as confident of its success.

The mayor designated the co-chairmen as he prepared to leave today for a 10-day ocean trip to New York and Boston, placing the responsibility for the active campaign in behalf of the bonds squarely on their shoulders. He empowered them to name their co-committeemen.

ISLAND CONSTABULARY PROPOSAL IS DEFEATED

Senate Overwhelmingly Votes Down Move; Storm Clouds Unbroken.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—A swift move to establish a constabulary to bulwark the new administration in the politically-troubled Virgin Islands today was defeated overwhelmingly in the senate.

Meanwhile, the storm clouds that have surrounded the island situation continued unbroken. Among the swift developments of the day were:

Indefinite suspension of the senate investigation into the islands, following which President Roosevelt and the senate committee reached an agreement at a late-day White House conference, bringing an announcement that the inquiry would be reopened tomorrow.

Disclosure that a woman member of the federal parole board—Dr. Amy Stannard—had resigned by request in order to make room for the appointment of Federal Judge T. Webster Wilson, of the Virgin Islands district court, who figured in the senate inquiry.

Receipt of dispatches from the islands reporting "surprise" at the appointment of Lawrence W. Cramer to succeed Governor Paul M. Pearson, and expressing opposition to his confirmation.

Announcement that an effort would be made to hold up the senate confirmation of Cramer, who was lieutenant governor of St. Croix, one of the island group, until completion of the senate investigation.

Reports were current, meanwhile, that the interior department itself was sponsor for the move to place a constabulary in the islands. During the day Senator McKellar unexpectedly introduced an amendment to the second deficiency appropriation bill calling for $40,000 for such a Virgin Islands force.

NEGRO MAN VICTIM OF TRAFFIC CRASH

Henry Williams Dies at Grady Hospital as 8th Fatality of Month.

Atlanta's twenty-eighth traffic death of the year was marked yesterday when Henry Williams, negro, of 687 State street, died at Grady hospital from injuries suffered Saturday morning.

Williams was riding with Frank Hall, 24, white, of 484 Wheeler street. Hall was driving west on Simpson street and started to turn right on Chestnut street, according to Y. F. Geeslin, special traffic investigator of the police department. His automobile struck a curbing and Hall lost control of the car, crashing into a telephone pole, Geeslin said.

Hall was treated at Grady hospital for minor injuries and dismissed. Williams suffered a fractured skull, which resulted yesterday in his death.

He was the eighth traffic victim of the month, and his death brings the fatal injury total of last Saturday to four.

CHURCH WILL HANG MODERN "SUPPER"

51 Residents of Town, Bowl of Beans Depicted in Unusual Mural.

CHATHAM, Mass., July 24.—(UP)—"The circle supper," Alice Stallknecht Wright's new and ambitious attempt at modernizing sacred art, was viewed tonight as a reverent, moving expression of the lesson "Christ is always among us."

Depicting a smooth-faced saviour in modern garb about to partake of an old-fashioned church supper with 51 prominent Chatham residents, the huge unconventional mural will be placed on exhibition August 3.

With the approval of the Rev. Charles M. Thorp, it will hang for two months in the rear of the First Congregational church here.

"Whatever its artistic merits it is wholly irrelevant," Rev. Thorp commented. "Mrs. Wright, he said, 'received her inspiration from the 24th chapter of Luke's gospel."

Delimited are:

A bearded Christ in open-necked shirt, seated alone at a central table and offering up prayer before the meal.

The 51 Chatham folk, seated along four rows of tables, gazing reverently at the Saviour.

A girl waitress in kinked apron holding a bowl of baked beans.

A coast guardman carrying a tray on which are a loaf of brown bread and coffee cups.

"It is realism and so intended," Mrs. Wright said. "The idea was to create a vital impression to convey the thought that His presence is always among us."

SALES TAX APPROVED FOR MIAMI WELFARE

MIAMI, Fla., July 24.—(AP)—A 1 per cent "emergency welfare" tax will be imposed on all retail sales and services in Miami for the next year, the city commission tentatively decided today after gaining the approval of a committee of businessmen.

The 1 per cent tax will return from $400,000 to $500,000, it was estimated by city officials, and will be pledged to the city's welfare and charity budgets. The businessmen voted eight to three in favor of the "emergency welfare" tax.

The approval was given after a session at which municipal department heads explained their budget estimates for the fiscal year 1935-36. The budget must be adopted by midnight Saturday.

The city commission, ordering the city finance department to collaborate with the city attorney in drafting a tax ordinance, indicated final action will be taken tomorrow.

Map Shows Location of Ball's Ferry Span

The above map shows the controversial Ball's Ferry Bridge, on the Irwinton-Wrightsville highway, around which has revolved the row between the State Highway Department and the United States Bureau of Public Roads. The map also shows the two paralleling roads which the highway board says are adequate for the area at the present time.

GEORGIA HIGHWAY ROW IN DEADLOCK STAGE

ing their claims and carrying on the fight which began by the Wrightsville Herklight 18 years ago, is now an every-day subject around every dinner table in the county and a matter of consideration at the door of the White House.

"Johnson county people do not wish to be sidetracked again on the proposition. For all these 18 years, when politicians gained their election on bridge and highway promises to our people, and the crucial moment came for these promises to be fulfilled some project, obstacle or another would rise up overnight and we people of Johnson county would be left in the dust, mud and mire that beought our forefathers. That's where we are today. We are no better off than they were so far as roads are concerned."

Bridge Promoted.

"Wilkeson, Washington, and Emanuel counties have time and time again joined Johnson county in meetings for promoting the Ball's Ferry bridge and the Bee Line highway. Hence, because trips to Atlanta by officials' joint meetings, mass meetings, conferences, political maneuvers, and neighboring assemblies of all sorts have been freely and strongly supported by the four counties through all of these years and never have one of the four flinched nor given back in asking and demanding their rights that the bridge should be constructed. Failure came only through being sidetracked."

"The bridge will fill a need. The people want it. The three counties, Wilkeson, Washington, and Johnson, have pledged their good offices and their financial interests, officially, in the construction of Ball's Ferry bridge and the Bee Line highway, a state road now being kept up by the State Highway Department on both sides of the Oconee river."

"Only 10 days ago heavily laden petitions from the three counties went to the Highway Board and his excellency, the Governor, asking that they include the bridge in their next letting. Not a word in reply has come to the thousands of persons of the three counties who signed the petitions freely and willingly and pleadingly."

Undeveloped Country.

"Here is a country largely undeveloped along much of the mileage. The people living on both sides of the river, though in a neighborly distance, have never met each other. As George Carswell once stated, 'They can hear each other cuss his uncle but they don't know who the fellow is.' And so it has been since Adam and Eve were in the Garden."

The bridge would give a shorter distance to Macon and Atlanta for Johnson county people by 18 miles. As it is now they have to go to a city on the south or to one on the north to get started anywhere. It would save people traveling from Savannah to Atlanta nine miles. It would open up a market road so badly needed today by the farmers and truck growers of the three counties. It is a bridge and road that has "come up" with their children in dreams day and night, and therefore, is a household word in every home that some day they would get the bridge."

"It is 65 miles from Milledgeville to Dublin. Not a bridge spans the Oconee river between the two cities. Ball's Ferry is about halfway between the two places. The people can't see the wisdom, justice and moderation of constructing many bridges around one or two places in the state, paying all their roads, and then leave them here in the dust and mud. Continued rains put Johnson county autoists out of business."

Vinson Promised Bridge.

"It was at a barbecue at the ferry, given by those who people and attended by a hundred dignitaries, that Hon. Carl Vinson stood on the speaker's stand and told all of that assembled multitude that he promised them and there that the bridge would be built and the applause was deafening. That was four years ago. Can any man blame him for trying to fulfill his promise to the people? Is that violating state's rights? Or the rights of our people to be properly recognized in the distribution of the vast sums accruing from gas and tax taxes they have paid all of these 18 years? Touch the sentiment of the people of Georgia on this."

"Now, in simple form that is the way our people feel about the situation. They have exhausted their pleadings and laid their all on the fairness of the authorities in Washington and in Atlanta in the hope, which they hug so sublimely, that the good graces of these officials may bring our people up with the balance of the state by giving them this bridge and this highway."

Society Women Divorce Mates in Husband Trade

RENO, Nev., July 24.—(UP)—Two socially prominent wives of members of the Kingston, R. I., State College faculty have obtained divorces secretly so one may marry the other's husband, it was learned today.

Despite efforts at secrecy that included the apparent co-operation of Judge Clark Guild and mysterious disappearance of all papers that under the law must be open to inspection to the public, it was known that:

1. Captain J. E. Brady, military advisor to the college's R. O. T. C. unit, was divorced at Carson City, Nev., Monday, and.

2. Delmore Frederick Toottell, track coach at the institution, was divorced by his wife, the former Anna Parsons, member of a wealthy Boston family, at Yerington, Nev., today.

The two women lived under the names of "Mrs. Smith" and "Mrs. Brown." Friends of the pair denied Mrs. Toottell financed the "swap."

Mrs. Toottell is to marry Captain Brady, according to their plans. Mrs. Brady left Reno last Monday night with her small daughter.

TOBACCO MARKET LAW HIT BY WAREHOUSEMEN

statute through arrest of anyone violating it.

"The petition of the warehousemen shows the need for a regulatory law because in it they have a monopoly and all are operating on the same price schedule," Goode said in commenting on the petition.

Fees Fixed by Law.

The petition shows that the law fixes the fees as follows:

Auctions, 15 cents for the first 100 pounds; 25 cents for each additional 100 pounds.

Weighing, 10 cents per 100 pounds. Commissions, 2-1/2 per cent of sales. As recited in the petition the charges now being made follow:

Auctions, 25 cents for the first 200 pounds and 50 cents per pile for all piles of more than 200 pounds.

Weighing, 25 cents for the first 100 pounds and 25 cents for each additional 100 pounds.

Rights Taken Away.

The petition charges that the rights guaranteed to citizens under the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States are taken away from the warehouse owners in the act.

Commenting on the litigation, Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder said he hoped tobacco growers will not put "one single pound" of the leaf on the market August 1, if the injunction is granted.

Goode said yesterday that he did not believe the court would entertain the suit, but added that if it did it would go before three judges.

"The warehousemen have a monopoly just like public utilities and it is business affecting the public welfare," Goode declared. "We believe that with such the case the state may exercise its police powers and such is provided in the act."

The suit, in behalf of a large majority but not all of the warehouse operators of the state, is being handled by Wilcox, Connell & Wilcox, of Valdosta; J. O. Gibson, of Moultrie, and Alston, Foster & Moise, of Atlanta.

COMPULSORY GRADING PLAN FOR TOBACCO CHALLENGED

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—The constitutionality of compulsory government grading of tobacco was challenged today as the house began consideration of the Flannagan tobacco inspection and grading bill.

Representative Clark asserted the measure, which would make violations of the proposed law punishable by a $1,000 fine or one year imprisonment, was "the most unconstitutional bill ever proposed in this house."

He gave notice that a colleague, Representative Unstead, would offer an amendment to eliminate the compulsory features and the provision for a fine or imprisonment for violations.

"It is not interstate commerce to say this pile of tobacco is grading fair and that one is grade five," Clark shouted.

Under the measure, introduced by Representative Flannagan, the agricultural secretary would be authorized to designate certain auction tobacco markets as government graded markets, necessitating submission of the weed to government inspectors before it could be sold.

DR. AMY STANNARD QUILTS ISLAND POST

Parole Board Member Resigns To Smooth Way for Shakeup.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—A woman member of the United States board of paroles was disclosed today to have resigned to smooth the way for a Virgin Islands shakeup which has brought a lull in the senate's investigation of affairs there.

Dr. Amy N. Stannard, member of the board since 1930, resigned at the request of Attorney-General Cummings to "create a vacancy." Her place went to Judge T. Webster Wilson, of Mississippi, who was shifted from a judicial post in the Virgin Islands yesterday after a long constitutional case.

It was charged that Gaddis collected $214 for Jones in 1934, but never

DEATH TOLL INCREASES
FROM CHINESE FLOODS30,000 Bodies Recovered in Hankow Area; Five Provinces Devastated.

SHANGHAI, July 24.—(AP)—A report that 30,000 bodies of flood victims had been picked up in the Hankow area alone today provided grim measure of the toll taken in central China by the receding waters of the Han and Yangtze rivers.

Simultaneously northern provinces continued struggling to imprison the raging waters of the Yellow river. "China's sorrow," which roared headlong down to the sea, crushing its barriers to engulf enormous areas of farmlands.

The report from Hankow, coming from Red Cross authorities there, combined with reports from other areas to indicate uncounted thousands of Chinese had died like flies in the Han and Yangtze rivers.

Government authorities said five provinces had been devastated, saying total losses could not be estimated for weeks to come. The rivers were receding, but vast areas remained under water.

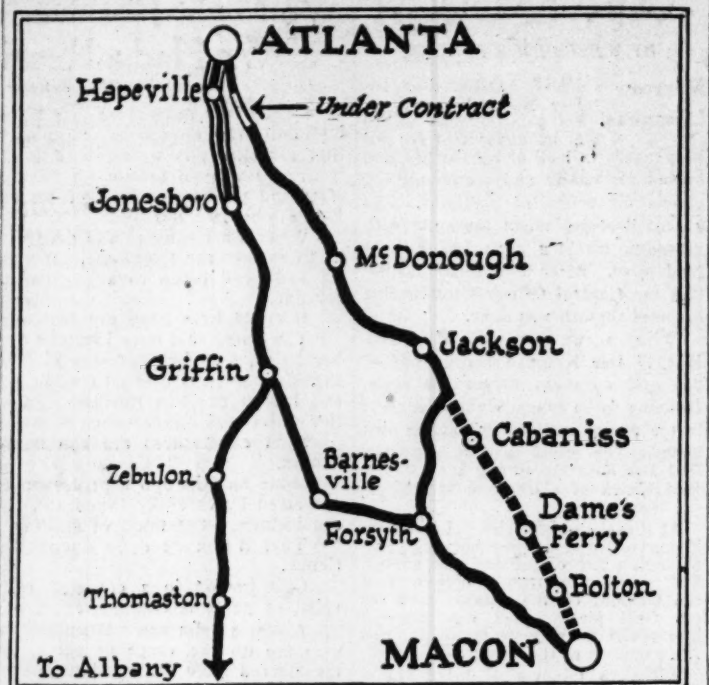

The Yellow river's toll was almost equally great.

Governor Han Fu Chu, of Shantung province, reported nearly 5,000,000 persons there homeless; Hunan's governor said several million in that province were destitute; Hopei, Honan and Shensi, seriously hit, reported refugees clinging to dikes and dying helplessly under the scorching sun, while efforts were being made to save 1,000,000 farm folk around Hinghwa, in northern Kiangsu, from the advancing waters.

Dikes surrounding Nanyang lake on the Shantung-Kiangsu border collapsed before the surge of eight feet of water, flooding the countryside and destroying everything.

Relief agencies, fearing the aftermath of famine and disease would raise the proportions of the catastrophe to those of 1931, announced they would appeal to the United States and other countries for help.

Atlanta, Macon to Benefit From New Projects

The above map shows projected improvements in highways linking Atlanta and Macon as well as the highway from Atlanta to Griffin and feeding to south-central Georgia. The new route between Jackson and Macon, cutting off 13 miles' distance, is shown, as well as its link with State Route 42, which leads through Jackson, McDonough and Stockbridge into Atlanta. There is a small strip between McDonough and Atlanta under contract. On Route 41 between Atlanta and Jonesboro the highway board plans a widening project which will provide a 26-foot roadway, the widest in the state, to take care of the heavy traffic on that road.

Atlanta and will proceed through Jackson and McDonough into Stockbridge and Atlanta. The last link of the paving of the Jackson-Atlanta road is to be started soon. It begins just south of the federal prison and runs to Conley.

Hapeville Project Tied Up.

The board chairman explained that the widening and resurfacing of the Jonesboro to Hapeville road was a project included in the $10,000,000 federal money which is tied up at present.

"The surface of the present road is in bad shape," Chairman Wilburn said. "We are going to have to resurface it and we are going to widen it at the same time. What is now an 18-foot highway will be a 26-foot highway with three traffic lanes, one for passing."

The chairman explained that even with the relief taken off the road by the improvement of Route 42 there still will be a great deal of traffic coming from Barnesville, Griffin and points below Griffin on Route 3 as well as from Fayetteville, which turns its traffic into Route 41 just north of Jonesboro.

"When this is completed the route from Jonesboro to Atlanta will be the finest in the south," Wilburn said. The widening and resurfacing of this section will cost upwards of $125,000.

TENNESSEE VOTES
PWA AID TO CITIES

University Also Voted Permission To Borrow Directly From Agency.

NASHVILLE, July 24.—(AP)—Authority for cities and counties to borrow from the Public Works Administration to acquire public works projects and for the University of Tennessee to borrow from that agency for dormitories was voted by the senate today. The house has yet to act.

Senator Fletcher R. Morgan successfully opposed a proposal to exempt for taxation the bonds issued by cities and counties against their loans, but failed in his attempt to block permission for University of Tennessee to finance buildings with federal funds.

A measure creating a state Rural Electricification Authority was made ready for Governor McCallister when the senate concurred in a house amendment, thus completing legislative action.

With the franchise tax bill approved by both branches, indications were that the other part of the Governor's financial program—the appropriation bill for the biennium—would be sped to action. The senate, which read and amended the $48,300,000 supply measure last week, likely will put it to a final vote tomorrow.

GEORGE ASKS HOPKINS
TO HELP UNEMPLOYEDSpecial Provision Pending
Start of Works Progress
Projects Urged.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Works Progress administrator, was urged today by Senator Walter F. George to make a special relief provision for the unemployed in Georgia pending the start of the new works program in the state.

Pointing out that the new program will not get fully under way before September the Georgia senator told Administrator Hopkins that funds should be provided for taking care of persons formerly on relief rolls until then.

Mr. Hopkins promised to consider the proposal and advise the senator later on his action.

Relief funds were stopped recently in anticipation of the new $4,000,000, 000 works relief program, which is designed to transfer persons from relief rolls to work projects.

STATE ADMINISTRATION

HAS BEEN READY 10 DAYS

Probability that Georgia's first Works Progress Administration projects will be started today loomed yesterday.

The initial allotment of WPA funds—$294,000—was made available to the state yesterday, the only step delaying beginning of the work is requisitioning of the money. The state administration has been ready for 10 days to transfer relief families to WPA jobs.

R. L. MacDougall, head of the works progress division, said yesterday additional allotments are expected to reach Atlanta regularly in the future, until the entire relief load of 71,000 persons is shifted from PERA to WPA.

Boy Strangled to Death.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, July 24.—(AP)—The police said today Mario Heinz, 20, confessed he strangled his 6-year-old nephew, David Fox, to death while attempting to attack the boy late yesterday.

BALTIMORE, July 24.—(AP)—Emil Cella, who drank a half-gallon of beer in 28 seconds, is in a hospital today on a milk diet.

Physicians said a blood vessel burst in his stomach from the too rapid gulping of the beer, but they were puzzled by finding his esophagus badly scratched.

Cells explained that he topped off the beer with some hard-shelled crabs, without removing the shells.

COAL PEACE MEETING IS SLATED FOR TODAY

For Fourth Time in Year Operators and Miners Will Seek Contract.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—For the fourth time this year, Appalachian soft coal operators and the United Mine Workers will try tomorrow to reach an agreement on miners' wages and hours for the next eight months.

The outcome of the new wage conference was tied in so closely with the fate of the Guiffy coal stabilization bill, and the outlook for that measure was so bleak, that coal men refused to hazard a guess on how the negotiations would end.

The third extension of the 1934-35 wage contract expires at midnight July 31. Four things might happen:

1.—The operators might agree to the miners' demand for a 30-hour week and a 10 per cent increase, or the miners might accept the operators' offer to continue the present scale through next March 31—with or without action on the Guiffy bill. Such a concession from either side, however, appeared improbable.

2.—A compromise might be reached.

3.—The miners might strike August 1. The strike would be nearly nationwide, as all United Mine Workers' contracts are based on those for the Appalachian fields.

4.—A fourth extension of the present scale might be arranged, through White House intervention, to give Congress more time to consider the Guiffy bill.

That bill would set up a little NRA for the bituminous industry. One large group of operators, mostly northern, says its price-fixing provisions would insure retention of the present wage structure. Another group, mostly southern, opposes the measure, saying it would ruin the industry through price increases.

Soldiers at 14, They Fought Battles in France

Probably the three youngest American World War veterans are shown above as they posed for photographers at United States Veterans' Hospital No. 48, Atlanta, where they are patients. They participated in the most bitter engagements in which American forces were thrown during the stormy days of 1917-18. Shown left to right are M. W. "Baby" Davis, a Georgian; Colonel Fred Thompson, of South Carolina; and Lieutenant Colonel Lewis Hazard, of Atlanta, the youngest of the trio. Staff photo.

Youngest Veterans of World War Are Patients at U. S. Hospital 48

Three World War veterans, believed to be the youngest American participants in that struggle, have lived practically as many years since the war as they lived before, and now are patients at United States Veterans' Hospital No. 48, Atlanta.

M. W. "Baby" Davis, who has just turned 33 years old; Fred Thompson, a colonel on Governor Ruby Laffoon's staff, just approaching 33, and Lieutenant Colonel Lewis Hazard, of Governor Eugene Talmadge's staff, who has just passed 32, are the heroes in question, and each has won his spurs and something more for active service. They are patients at the hospital. They tell of their hardships and achievements, gained through the gullibility of recruiting officers or through winking recruiters, who could not resist the appeal of the glowing reports of patriotism and enthusiasm which prompted the youngsters to falsify their ages in their eagerness to do their bit when everybody was doing theirs.

Born at Ellijay. Davis was born July 23, 1902, at Ellijay, Ga., and served 21 months with the A. E. F. He participated in the campaigns at the Marne, Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel, Chateau-Thierry, Verdun, Meuse-Argonne. He was wounded September 15, 1918, at St. Mihiel as a runner in headquarters company, Twelfth field artillery, Second division. He was cited for bravery, received the purple heart decoration, Croix de Guerre from France, and the United States Victory medal with five bars.

Thompson, whom the Governor of Kentucky has honored, was born September 17, 1902, at Spartanburg, S. C., and served with the A. E. F. for 23 months. He is the youngest member of Governor Laffoon's staff, and in addition to being an accomplished advertising and newspaper writer is a cartoonist of national reputation. He sold a recruiting officer on the idea that he was 18, the minimum age for acceptance into military service, when he was 14, and, in 1917, and served 17 months with Company C, 109th machine gun battalion, Twenty-eighth division.

Colonel Hazard is Atlanta born, and first saw daylight on February 9, 1903. He is the youngest of the trio, and probably the most decorated. He enlisted March 31, 1917, and served 17 months with Company C, 109th machine gun battalion, Twenty-eighth division. He was wounded in action in the Fismes defensive sector on August 10, 1918, and participated in virtually every major engagement along the French front including Chateau-Thierry, Champagne-Marne, Aisne-Marne, Clermont, Thiercourt and Meuse-Argonne. He received the purple heart and the

SITUATION STILL TENSE IN TERRE HAUTE ERA

Nevertheless Part of Guard Demobilized; Trams Resume Operation.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 24.—(AP)—National guard officers toured Terre Haute today and decided although union labor's general strike is ended a tense situation still prevails.

Nevertheless it was decided to demobilize all but 500 of the 1,100 troops rushed into this city Monday when members of 40 unions started a "labor holiday" to show their sympathy for fellow unionists who have fought a four-month strike to force recognition from the Columbian Enameling and Stamping Company.

Brigadier General D. Wray DePrez, commanding the guardsmen, and Colonel Albert Whitcomb, next in command, conferred an hour with city and county officials and emerged to say the martial law proclaimed by Governor Paul V. McNutt would be continued indefinitely.

"We will demobilize some of the troops but will keep enough here to preserve order during a situation that is still very tense," said Colonel Whitcomb.

A force of considerable size, it was indicated, will be left to guard the enameling plant. Union leaders attributed the calling of the general strike to resentment over alleged importation of armed guards and strikebreakers by the enameling concern.

Conciliators Remain.

Charles L. Richardson, of Washington, and Harry E. Sheek, of Chicago, United States Department of Labor conciliators, remained here.

The conciliators quoted C. B. Gorbey, the enameling company president, as saying the imported guards would be removed and a conference held with an employees' committee if a guarantee of adequate protection for the mill property is given. They said Gorbey declared he would not consider a police guard sufficient protection.

The city's business activities took on a normal aspect this morning when some 22,000 unionists heeded the request of T. N. Taylor, former State Federation of Labor president, and a committee of enameling plant strikers to call off the general strike.

Trams Move Again.

Street cars, buses and taxicabs resumed operation and stores and factories, deserted by union employees during the "holiday," reopened.

For 135 men arrested by military authorities on a variety of offenses the "holiday" continued, but they spent it in jail.

Most of those held were accused of minor infractions of the martial law proclamation which forbade assemblage and the carrying of arms.

Captain Garret said the prisoners included two faculty members of the Indiana State Teachers' College, located in this city. They are Professor Raymond Shannon and Professor W. O. David. Both are charged with violating the rule against assemblage.

WOMAN KILLS CHILDREN AND ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

MORRISTON, Ark., July 24.—(AP) Coroner Frank Reid said today that Mrs. Cora Garrett, 29, had fatally slashed the throats of her two small children, attempted to take her own life at their farm home 13 miles northeast of Morrilton.

Reid said he had ordered the woman held for grand jury action on murder charges without an inquest. He quoted Mrs. Garrett as saying domestic difficulties were responsible for the tragedy.

The two children, Thomas Charles, three, and Betty Jo, two, were killed about 100 yards from their home. Reid said the woman's husband, George H. Garrett, 35, farmer, later was arrested attempting to slash her own throat near the bodies of the children.

"We had been having trouble and I wanted to kill myself and then I decided to leave the children with him," the coroner quoted Mrs. Garrett as saying.

Reid said the woman related slashing the throat of the girl first and then almost severing the boy's head before inflicting wounds in her own throat. She was expected to recover.

Reid said the couple had been married about six years and that she had been divorced previously to her marriage to Garrett.

MANILA WILL INSTALL PRESIDENT ON NOV. 15

MANILA, P. I., July 24.—(AP)—The first native president of the Philippine Islands will be inaugurated November 15.

The date was fixed today by Governor General Frank Murphy after a conference with Manuel Quezon, senate president and outstanding presidential candidate. November 25 previously had been mentioned as the most favored date.

The change was made to suit the convenience of a delegation of United States officials headed by Vice President John N. Garner and Undersecretary of War George H. Dern, who are expected to attend the inauguration of the commonwealth government.

COMPOSITION SOLES FOR CCC PROTESTED

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—Leather manufacturers protested to the White House and the Emergency Conservation Corps today against the purchase of composition-soled shoes for CCC workers, and later expressed belief this type of footwear would be tried out on an experimental basis only.

Led by Representative Rogers, republican, Massachusetts, the leather manufacturers besieged both the White House and the office of Robert Fechner, CCC director, in an effort to forestall the proposed purchase and insist on leather-soled shoes.

Mrs. Rogers said, after their White House conference, Marvin H. McIntyre, one of the President's secretaries, had promised to take up the question with the chief executive.

Fechner, Mrs. Rogers said, agreed to give more consideration to the advisability of providing leather-soled shoes before calling for bids.

The beauty victory won here by Miss Folger carries with it a trip to Macon, on August 22, to compete in the Legion state beauty contest. Second place in the Decatur contest was won by Miss Dot Frank, of 740 East Lake drive, and third place honors were taken by Miss Dot Smith, of 355 Church street.

The DeKalb Barons, sandlot baseball team sponsored by the Harold Byrd post, are the beneficiaries of the contest, with proceeds coming from more than 400 paid admissions.

AAA IS ADVERTISED AS 'SUCKER AGENCY'

Farm Offered for Tenant Who Wants Pay for Not Raising Hogs.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—Their nerves already frayed by weeks of court and legislative troubles, farm administration officials figuratively exploded today when they saw a classified advertisement published Sunday in the Joplin, Mo., Globe.

In the midst of several ads offering real estate for sale, they read: "Daddy way to make money, buy this 13 acres for hog raising. Sign up with the government to not raise, say 500 hogs. It will pay you $1,000. That will pay for the acres and have some left over."

Chester C. Davis, AAA's outspoken boss, quickly denied the AAA was promoting a real estate move in Missouri or elsewhere.

It is preposterous, it's at least preliminary to fraud. It's a deliberate misrepresentation and not in any way possible," Davis sputtered. "I shall begin an investigation of this at once."

CLIPPER SHIP TESTS EXCEED EXPECTATIONS

BALTIMORE, July 24.—(AP)—The clipper ship No. 7, constructed by the Glen L. Martin Company for passenger service over the Pacific, today surpassed speeds expected by her designers.

At tests made before officials of the Pan American Airways, for whom the ship was constructed, the giant plane showed a speed of 165 1-2 miles an hour at sea level and of 182 miles an hour at 8,000 feet. Among those present for the tests was Captain Edwin C. Musick, chief test pilot for Pan American Airways, who was at the controls of another clipper plane which made two hops to Hawaii.

Captain Musick will take his first ride in the Martin clipper tomorrow. The ship is to make a test flight to Miami next week.

ICC DENIES RATE CUT ON SOUTHERN FREIGHT

The Interstate Commerce Commission today refused to permit the Southeastern Express Company, in conjunction with the Southern Railway, to reduce freight rates on merchandise traffic moving between Cincinnati and Atlanta and Birmingham, on the grounds that such a reduction would be a discrimination against other lines.

The applicants had sought to lower rates on such traffic in order to meet motor truck competition between those points.

SPANISH FLYER TO HOP FOR COLOMBIA TODAY

MIAMI, Fla., July 24.—(AP)—Juan Pombo, Spanish trans-Atlantic flyer, will hop off from Maracaibo, Venezuela, for Barranquilla and Bogota, Colombia, at daybreak tomorrow. Pan-American Airways was advised by radio here today.

It was assumed that Pombo, who is on his way to Mexico City, would visit in the Colombian capital, as Bogota is not on the regular airline from the south to Mexico.

BURNS PROVE FATAL TO ARKANSAS GIRL, 15

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 24.—(AP)—Sybil Messmore, 15, of Wynne, Ark., died in a hospital here today of burns suffered when a coal oil stove exploded.

The child, the daughter of Clarence Messmore, farmer, was pouring oil into the stove when the two-gallon container exploded, shooting flames over her body, hospital attaches reported.

WORD WAR SUCCEEDS IRISH RELIGIOUS RIOTS

Opposing Factions Accuse Each Other for Responsibility of Outbreaks.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, July 24.—(AP)—A war of words today succeeded Ireland's 18-day religious war of bullets, rioting and incendiarism that has taken nine lives, left many injured, resulted in 140 arrests and caused widespread property losses.

Leaders of opposing factions in the Catholic-Protestant strife fired accusations and counter-accusations of responsibility for the trouble, the most serious since that of 1920 and 1921.

The barrage of charges agreed only on the deep underlying causes of the rioting that was touched off when rifle shots broke up the Orangemen's celebration July 12 of the anniversary of the Battle of Boyne, the battle that made Protestantism secure in Northern Ireland.

However, leaders of the Orange institution, clearly identified with the Protestant majority, ascribe the blame to the Catholics, asserting the whole trouble was prearranged and directed against King George's silver jubilee celebration.

BREAK O'DAY!
By Ralph Jones

When Clyde Milan was roving the baseball paths he frequently had larceny in his mind and his feet were very co-operatively dishonest.

And not at all like the slow-footed player of whom the late Ring Lardner wrote: "There was larceny in his mind but his feet were honest."

Clyde Milan got there. He stole 92 bases in the season of 1912 with Washington. Only 88 of them got into the records. The other four were in games which were rained out before they became legal games and therefore did not get into the records.

He came back in 1913 to steal 74. Across 10 consecutive years he stole an average of 50 bases per season for one of the finest records in baseball. Not as great as that of Ty Cobb, but still one of the great baseball records.

The feet of most of the boys in baseball today are honest. And so, for that matter, are their minds. They don't care so much about stealing bases in these days and times. And thereby is lost one of the finest features of baseball.

Ben Chapman, one of the greatest of modern days, still far behind Cobb and Milan, has announced that he will steal bases very infrequently, if at all.

All of which led me, when Clyde Milan was here with his Lookouts, to ask about the gentle art of stealing bases.

"YOU STEAL ON THE PITCHER."

"You steal on the pitcher more than the catcher," said Milan. "By that I mean you must get the break on the pitcher."

"Very few of the boys know how to slide. They must be in stride with the first step. That is important. And they must not make up their minds to slide until they see where the ball is going."

"Today most of the players have their minds made up to slide and they slide only one way—straight in."

"If they would watch the man covering the bag they would know which way to slide. Sometimes the ball comes straight in. Sometimes to one side or the other. Yet most of the base stealers slide just one way. A great many of them can slide only one side."

Which is true enough. The customer at ball games today goes to game after game and never sees a hook slide or the old-style "fall-away" slide which left just the toe for the boys to tag. Today they slide straight in there, offering a great deal of flannel-covered epidermis to be tagged.

The slide, in the execution of an expert, can be to one side or the other, depending on where the ball goes. But too few of the modern players know how to time the slide that well. They start fast, run blindly and slide.

It is dangerous. Legs snap easily when spikes catch in the ground, or the bag. And there are bruises and sprains to be received. Yet it should be pointed out that the real artists at base stealing never got hurt.

COBB, COLLINS AND MILAN.

There were six years, from 1909 to 1915, when three great ones in the matter of baseball larceny were stealing bases. They were Ty Cobb, Eddie Collins and Clyde Milan.

Cobb was to average almost 40 stolen bases a year for 24 consecutive years of campaigning, which is just one of his records. But for a time he had opponents.

Look how the record grew—with competition. In 1909 the young outfielder, just reaching his stride with Detroit, stole 76 bases.

The next year Eddie Collins led with 81 bases. Cobb came back in 1911 to steal 83 and set a new mark.

The next year Clyde Milan smashed it by stealing 88. In 1915 Cobb stole the amazing total of 96 bases. That is the best record of modern times. Cobb led the league for six years, but Max Carey leads him there, having led his league for 10 years. But Cobb remains the greatest modern base thief.

HARRY STOVEY.

The greatest record for a single season was set by Harry Stovey, who played with the old Philadelphia Athletics in 1888. He stole 156 bases in one season, which is better than the lifetime average of some players of today.

I recall hearing the late Wilbert Robinson tell many stories about Stovey. "Uncle Robbie" played with Stovey.

He recalled a game with Buffalo in which he, Robinson, was caught off first base by a pitcher.

"That will cost you $50," said Stovey, as Robinson came in to the plate.

The next inning Stovey himself got on first and was caught off.

"That $50 doesn't go," he said to Robinson.

Uncle Robbie always claimed that Stovey had no weak-kneed catchers and pitchers on which to steal. He was, said Robbie, fleet as a deer and a great man at sliding.

EDDIE MOORE'S LARCENOUS CREW.

Eddie Moore's Crackers are better than average at the larceny of bases. They are in third place, close behind Memphis, which leads in the matter of thefts.

Moore employs old-fashioned baseball, which is to say he plays the game as it should be played. They can't second-guess Eddie Moore on his baseball tactics.

GRANT LEAVES FOR TOURNEYS; PLAYS MONDAY

Atlanta Star To Play in All Grass Court Events, Including National.

By Jack Troy.

Atlanta has conquered the rolling fairways of the world, reached the peak in swimming, six-day bicycle racing, tennis and other sports.

And speaking of tennis Bryan Grant, like the Arab, silently folded his tent and stole away from Atlanta last night bound for greater conquests on turf.

Little is known concerning what Grant did with his tent. The important thing is that he carried his tennis racquets and will open an extensive campaign on grass starting with the Southampton tournament Monday.

Atlanta's three national clay courts champion, seven times southern champion, numerous times city champion and winner of the greatest prize of the day on clay, will play in all the grass tournaments in order.

NATIONAL IS GOAL. His goal is the national championship at Forest Hills.

The departure of Grant was unaccompanied by fanfare, so to speak. Fact is, only his family and a few friends knew he was off on another conquest of the far-flung tennis battlefields.

Greater sports fame has come to but few Atlantans. Only Bobby Jones, in fact, has overshadowed his feats. And that is so, perhaps, because golf has always carried the greater appeal. The time will come when Atlantans will look back on the records and remember Grant as one of the greatest competitors in history.

FIREBALL. They will remember Grant as the five-foot, four-inch fireball who blasted off tennis courts the biggest men of his time, both from a standpoint of size and national ranking.

The current grass court campaign is important to Grant because it will determine just how good his game is on grass. He is in the best shape of his career. And his record this season has been the best he has ever made. A successful season on grass will rank him very close to the top. He has never been higher than seventh.

Grant has enjoyed varied success on grass. A few years back he eliminated Ellsworth Vines, defending champion, in the national championship at Forest Hills. Grant did not win the title. He has never won an important grass court title.

IMPORTANT. And so the forthcoming campaign is very important to him. He would like to convince the United States Lawn Tennis Association that the idea he can't play consistently well on turf is all wrong.

His biggest handicap in this respect is that he has had little opportunity to practice on grass. His tennis life has been necessarily centered on clay courts. And he is the greatest of them all on clay.

SCRIBE GOLFERS OPEN PRACTICE

Atlanta's newspaper golfers will start practicing today over the Forest Hills course for the annual championship tournament next week. Today and Friday will be given over to practice rounds and all entry fees must be paid to Willie Livingston, the Forest Hills professional, before the practice starts.

Qualifying rounds for the tourney will be played on Monday or Tuesday, and there will be no practicing on either of those days.

The four lowest scores from either newspaper or news service will be given prizes along with the medalist and winner and runner-up in each flight.

There will be as many flights as necessary to take care of every entry.

Roby Robinson, of The Constitution, is the defending champion.

She disclosed today she has "accepted" Cleon Wingard, a physical education instructor from Johnstown, Pa.

Miss Kight, holder of three national swimming titles, said the wedding will be deferred until she achieves her greatest ambition—winning an Olympic championship. She hopes to compete in the international contests at Berlin next year. Wingard is 24. Miss Kight is 22.

REID TO MEET BARNES TODAY IN GOLF FINALS

Barefoot Boy Beats Branch; Luke Turns Back Garrard.

By Jack Troy.

It appeared for a time yesterday morning at the West End Golf Club as if it might be a wise move to send out a searching party for James Reid, smiling barefoot caddy from Piedmont, and Weldon Branch, his diminutive opponent from the East Lake Club.

They had reached the turn in their semi-final battle of the Atlanta junior golf tournament with Reid holding a three-up advantage.

All the other contestants came filing in, some grinning and other forlorn, and still there was no sign of Reid and Branch.

The day before Branch had reached the turn four down and was five down going to the 12th. The young East lake star, who is no taller than four feet iron, then proceeded to rally sensationally and win the next seven holes for a two-up victory.

WAIT HOPEFULLY. To those waiting at the clubhouse, it began to appear that maybe Branch was pulling another driving finish. They waited hopefully.

But presently James Reid, tall and straight, came trudging up "bunker hill" to the clubhouse and he had a grin on his face. Branch was lagging behind.

And so it was that the barefoot boy from Piedmont, winning 3 and 2, meets Luke Barnes, youngest of the Barnes brothers, for the junior championship this morning.

Little Weldon Branch gave Reid a battle, but he found his game going back on him under the pressure. Oh, yes, the junior players have nerves. Reid did not set the woods on fire, but he did play rather consistently. It was a fine match while it lasted.

And Weldon Branch will be back in the competition next year with added experience and prove an outstanding threat.

BARNES FIRES 36. Luke Barnes turned back Otis Garrard, 5 and 4, and in so doing the youngest of the Barnes boys fired a brilliant 36, two over par, on the outgoing nine. He did not finish the incoming nine, of course.

Reid almost matched Brother Ralph last year's winner, who the day before had shot a par 34 in practice. Ralph is over the age limit this year. Pete Barnes, eldest of the Barnes boys, was on hand yesterday to see the finish.

Luke Barnes and Reid, who eliminated Bill Johnson, tourney medalist, and Branch, who eliminated Otis Garrard, to reach the finals, will meet at 10 o'clock this morning.

Barnes is the favorite. But it will take a lot of golf to stop the barefoot boy with shoes in the locker room.

Reid uses a spoon from the tee. He does not care for a driver. And consequently he does not get the distance that he might. But he is very smooth with his irons. Somebody inadvertently got away with his driver yesterday and Reid was rather upset. He hopes the mistake will be discovered before his match today.

It is quite an honor that has come to the Barnes family. A winner last year and a finalist and possible winner this year. But, as mentioned, Luke may win but it really ought to be a good bit of rugged firing to beat Reid.

DAHLBENDER WINS. Young Gene Dahlbender, who came poker-faced up "bunker hill" wearing a pith helmet that appeared almost as large as he is, had downed Bobby Moore, and Charles Burnett, James L. Key and who routed Ralph Tanner, 8 and 6, in today's second flight finals at 9:55 o'clock.

The gallery that has gathered has followed young Gene from the start. It appears one statement was something like the premature report of Mark Twain's death. Really exaggerated.

The gallery has not been composed of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fryckberg. Harry Fryckberg is not married. So I do not choose to be a party to any schemes who might justly demand to know "Mrs. Fryckberg." The lady was Mrs. A. J. Kaiser, friend of young Gene Dahlbender. No young star ever had more enthusiastic fans.

YATES IN FINALS. Alan Yates finally had a match yesterday and he virtually turned it into "no contest" as he eliminated Lamar Johnson, 6 and 5.

Nick Stillwell defeated Lawrence Crankshaw, 4 and 2. So Yates and Stillwell battle today at 9:50 o'clock for the championship of the third flight.

Young Yates was "dogged" proud that somebody at last had shown up to play him. The boys pulled a hoax on Alan the second day. When he came driving up with Mrs. Yates they had a full grown young man waiting there to play him.

"Here's your opponent, Alan," they said. Alan squinted up at him and said "Say, how old are you? But I don't care about that. Come on, let's go." That's the spirit of Alan Yates, who is coming along in this so-called man's game.

You really ought to see the finals. The kids hit their tee shots and before the ball ever hits their feet they're running down the fairway to make their second shot.

Dawson Ragdale has been an invaluable aid of Pro Albert Jones in running the tournament.

HARRIS TO JOIN Club on Tuesday

Sheriff Dave Harris, the Cracker right fielder, who has been on the injured list, will join the club in New Orleans next Tuesday, it was announced last night.

Harris' suspension will be up on that date and he will leave the club in New Orleans next Tuesday, it was announced last night.

Harris has not played since he hurt his arm crashing into the wall at Knoxville Sunday before last.

The Crackers return home Saturday week to open a series with Little Rock. There will be a double-header on Sunday, August 4, when President John D. Harris will present the attendance trophy and another automobile given away. A capacity crowd is expected that day.

HUSTLING TEAM. That's the name of the team that's been put together by the club. They have the happy faculty of coming up with a base hit in the clutch. Furthermore, your boys can field, run, throw, bunt and do the other things that are necessary to win. It is a smart, hustling

VIRGINIA OPEN SET AUGUST 10

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., July 24.—(AP)—Rebellion reared its ugly head today in the ranks of Virginia golf as pro and amateur conspirators to end the reign of the old master, Bobby Cruikshank.

Since Bobby came to Virginia, open championships have been Cruikshank exhibitions with the rest of the field floundering about in the wake kicked up by the wee, canny Scot.

It will be Cruikshank against the field again in the 72-hole state open August 10 and 11, but Bobby will have to kick against the odds of a few amateur champions whose overlapping titles cover all of Dixie from the Gulf to Maryland and a flock of first-rate professionals in his bid for a third straight title.

Jack Isaacs, the home town pro, who usually finishes well up in the money, hopes to make his best showing, and Chandler Harper, of Norfolk, who ruled about in the wake kicked up by the wee, canny Scot.

Bobby Riegel, the 19-year-old southern amateur champion who owes some of his golfing gains to the Scott's tutelage, and Billy Howell, former Walker cup star and present state amateur champion who also went to school under Cruikshank, hope to give a convincing demonstration of ingratitudes.

The Norfolk bomber, 20-year-old Morton McCarthy, second Atlantic champion, may score well.

Smiling, taciturn, Benny Loving, Charlottesville professional who won a bit of change on the winter tour and played particularly well at Aqua Caliente before his putter failed him, will be in there swinging.

Cruikshank, whose more immediate concern is the national four-ball tournament at Toledo in early August, thinks highly of his state title, but he hopes to trade it in for the national open that has been evading him for these many years. He tied with Bobby Jones in 1932, but Gene Sarazen came home steaming, showed a sensational 66 for the last round, and picked up the marbles. Cruikshank got second money again. He was third in 1934.

The Virginia title has been his consolation prize and now the boys want to take that from him.

CHICKS 4; BARONS 1.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 24.—With young Jim Henry doing up a five-hit game, the Memphis Chicks broke in a four-game series by winning the first game today, 4-1.

Henry's only mistake was throwing a home-run ball to Bud Clancy, Barons first baseman, in the fourth. Clancy knocked the ball over the right-field fence. Joe Hutchison, Chick right fielder, started the scoring when he tripled in the third with two bases aboard.

Leo Kintana, batted for several days because of poor hitting, led the Memphis assault with three hits in four trips to the plate.

BREAK of the DAY!

He plays by the book, and no better method has yet been determined. Our ball club, under his direction, has been playing the soundest baseball seen at Ponce de Leon in years.

"BUTTERMILK" MECKS.
Chattanooga had, in 1909, a fat catcher known as "Buttermilk" Meeks. As a youngster I used to scale the fence to see him play.

One line pulled by some unknown in the stands one day has remained with me through the years. Meeks, like a charging hippo, set out for second one day and slid, while still far from the bag. He tore up a tremendous amount of dust and was tagged out there, prostrate and puffing.

"The Meeks," said the wit, "shall inherit the earth."

INSIDE STUFF.

Mickey Cochrane was talking to Ty Cobb. "There were few details that old boy ever overlooked," said Cobb. "Take that matter of hitting to right or left field. The average batter takes his stance at the plate and then has to depend on the luck of the pitch.

"Suppose the batter is a left-handed hitter. If the ball is too close, he can't hit to left field—if the ball is too far out he can't hit to right. But Cobb figured out the way to meet all this. Having made up his mind which field he was aiming for, Ty would suddenly step back or step in just about the time the ball left the pitcher's hand. It was then too late for the pitcher to do anything about it. By stepping back quickly, he was in position to hit to left—by stepping closer in, he was all set for a poke to right.

"He told me one day while at bat what he was going to do. So I ordered a pitch-out, but it didn't help. He was still set for a drive to right. "There is a lot in this game to learn if a fellow will only work at it as Ty Cobb did."

Learn! He hasn't missed much along the road.

Rowe's Favorite Sport.

About this time, Lynwood "Schoolboy" Rowe arrived on the scene. Schoolboy Rowe is only six feet four, with shoulders about as wide as the wings of a trans-oceanic plane.

In his day as a high school student, he was a star at baseball, football, basketball, boxing, tennis and golf.

"What," I asked, "was your favorite game?" "I liked them all," he said, "but the answer is basketball."

He was the greatest basketball player I ever saw," some friend from the southwest cut in. This sounded reasonable. With his height and his long arms, the basket must have been a snap-up target.

"We got Rowe away from football just in time," Cochrane said. "I've seen too many promising ball players wrecked by football—wrecked as far as any good baseball is concerned. You can't play baseball with a bad throwing shoulder, and that's where football usually leaves its mark."

What about Dixie Howell? I asked Cochrane. "Howell was lucky in this respect," Mickey said. "He has a great arm and I believe he is on his way to be a star ball player. He has all the natural stuff needed and a fine competitive disposition. He is the type always at his best in a pinch—on a big occasion. He proved that against Stanford on New Year's Day."

Record Figures.

The Tiger mandarin believes there is a good chance that Detroit will ring up a New American league record for attendance figures this fall.

"We drew more than 900,000 at home last year," he said, "and we are already ahead of the 1934 crowd up to this point in spite of a cold, rainy start. If we can keep moving along as well as we ought to I look for the admissions to pass the million mark. I think the Cubs one season drew 1,200,000 at home. I doubt that we can beat that count, but we may not be far away."

What About Joe Louis?

"How can they keep Joe Louis away from his chance at the heavyweight championship?" a somewhat indignant fight fan wants to know.

Max Baer and Max Schmeling both figure they can beat Braddock. Each believes he can beat the other Max. Neither figures to have any healthy chance against Louis. It may not be the sporting side, but under the same conditions the average mortal would take about the same road—especially with a shot at the championship set for the next stop.

This means that Louis probably has at least a year in which to come still further along. By that time, public opinion will force a match, even if it doesn't operate any sooner.

As it is now, the two Maxes are much in favor of the softer, safer road—with Louis always an ultimate entry for the clean-up gate.

SHORT APPROACHES ARE LIKE LONG PUTTS

C. E. Burton, of Ansonia, Conn., writes, asking about short approaches. I saw a number of players recently struggling with these shots. They were not making sufficient allowance for the roughness of the turf around the greens at this time of the year. After the greenkeepers have rolled the ground in front of the putting surface you'll not have so much trouble getting your ball to stop near the hole.

If it's your swing that's giving you trouble with it, I suggest that you take a bunch of practice balls and hit them toward a target. Use about the same swing that you would with your long putts.

Take the clubhead back along the ground and let it swing right through the ball without lifting your head.

LACK OF WATER SEEN AS CANAL FIGHT CAUSE

Moisture Supply Not Adequate, Floridan Says in Battle for Waterway.

CLEARWATER, Fla., July 24.—(AP)—The cross-state ship canal will become an issue in future Florida political campaigns "if the question of its effect on water supplies is not settled to the complete satisfaction of the people," Marvin H. Walker, of Tampa, prophesied today.

Addressing the Clearwater Rotary Club, Walker, editor of the Florida Grower, said that in the past month about 80 Florida groups have sent resolutions to Washington demanding more complete water supply investigations.

"These demands have not received much consideration," he said, "if we are to believe Walter F. Coachman, of Jacksonville. That is not surprising, for this canal is to be built for the benefit of 37 states and Florida seems to have little to say about it."

"Many people who are concerned that the canal may be built without proper consideration of its effect on our water supplies have asked me what they can do about it," Walker told the Rotarians.

"As it is a federal project, we should first look to our representatives in congress to protect our interests. Since the water supply question was raised last month, two of our congressmen have undertaken to develop more information about it."

"If I am any judge of the temper of the people, they had better make the fight that needs to be made to protect our water supplies in the building of this canal. If they don't I believe the people will send representatives to Washington who will."

Sally Forth Soliloquizes Today Over Visitors and Other Matters

By Sally Forth.

ATLANTA friends of Mrs. Herbert G. Bancroft eagerly await the arrival here next Monday of her daughter, Barbara. The reason for this unusual anticipation is because of the fact that Barbara's mother visited here as the former Mollie Gould, of Boston, Mass. She was the frequent guest of the former Welhelmina Drummond, who is Mrs. John Harland. During her visits Mrs. Bancroft made a number of Atlanta friends who recall Mollie Gould's beauty and charm.

It will be Barbara's first visit to Atlanta. She will visit her mother's friend, Welhelmina Drummond Harland. Barbara's paternal grandparents were prominent pioneer residents of Bellows Falls, Vt., the home of the well-known Mrs. Hettie Green. In a recently written biography of the renowned Mrs. Green, the name of Barbara's grandmother is mentioned frequently as one of Mrs. Green's most aristocratic friends.

Arriving on the same day as the New York visitor will be Loula Callaway, of LaGrange. Loula's visits here always afford much joy to her Atlanta friends. She too, will visit Welhelmina Drummond Harland, who is a close friend of Loula's mother, Mrs. Eli Callaway, the former Loula Walker, of Madison, Ga. Loula and Barbara will share honors at a round of parties during their visit to the John Harlands.

Among these will be an informal buffet supper to be given by their hosts soon after their arrival.

friends from Cartersville and Rome at a house party.

In August, Julia will join Florida friends at a house party in Miami, and on the return trip she will stop in Atlantic Beach to visit Marianna Adair. Sally asked Mrs. Colquitt what Julia and Walter were planning to do during their trip, and Mrs. Colquitt quite adequately replied, "I don't know, but I probably wouldn't let them go if I did."

HERE'S a good story about one of Atlanta's most influential businessmen, who was sent by his wife to get rid of a stray cat that had nonchalantly taken up its abode very conspicuously at their domicile. It seems that the gentleman took the cat to Hapeville, but in a very few days it returned undaunted.

He took the feline to Cartersville, but it evidently loved its new home very much, for in a few more days it was back in its customary place. Finally the man took the cat and left it in the maze of streets, better known as Ansley Park, but no sooner had the gentleman left the cat and started off than he realized that he was hopelessly lost. Two hours later he found the small black animal and stealthily followed him home. He has never attempted to dispose of his tenacious pet since that time.

THE forthcoming week-end will bring together a trio of former schoolmates when Virginia Burke Evans reaches Atlanta on Friday. She lives in Birmingham and will visit Edith Coleman Paris, who has as her guest Gertrude Green Blalock, of Bradenton, Fla. These charming young matrons were classmates at Agnes Scott College, and traveled together in Europe after their graduation.

To bind the ties of friendship more closely, they purchased a real lace veil in Venice, with the idea in view that each could wear the veil when they donned their traditional bridal satin. Virginia was the first to change her name when she married Dan Blalock. Virginia took the orange blossom trail with Parker Evans. Edith was the third bride to envelop her slender form in the priceless veil when she became the bride of Ralph Paris, president of the Atlanta Rotary Club.

THIS is a story that has been going the rounds with profound amusement. It concerns one of Atlanta's most popular belles and an equally popular young man about town—and another young man who recently came to Atlanta for residence.

Attractive Cousins Visit Grandmother

Pictured at the left is Miss Peggy O'Neill Gregg, of Milledgeville, standing beside her cousin, Miss Betty Gregg, of New York city. These attractive young girls are visiting their paternal grandmother, Mrs. W. A. Gregg, and are being entertained at a series of informal parties. Before returning to the metropolis, Miss Betty Gregg will visit her cousin, Miss Marianna Adair, at her cottage at Atlantic Beach, Fla. Photograph by Asano, the Japanese photographer.

The young girl is one of those characters you read about, thoroughly charming, a good pal, pretty and the kind fond mama's dream about for their sons to marry.

So-o-o-o, one day last week the young belle accompanied her two gentlemen friends apartment-looking. They searched in vain for an apartment for three. They had no luck at all, for no sooner did the apartment keepers look over the threesome who asked for lodging for three, than they raised their prices sky high. Apparently they thought that Atlanta and Atlanta apartments weren't quite ready for any action of Noel Coward's famous "Design for Living."

They haven't found the apartment yet and the two young men are impatiently awaiting the return to Atlanta of the absent gentleman who will complete their trio for apartment lodging.

THE TEXAS OR THE ZEPHYR ?

Is your furniture the vintage of that battle-scarred "Iron Horse" . . . so peacefully parked in the basement of Atlanta's Cyclorama . . . or has it the beauty and newness of that silvered "Zephyr" that waits its way on the famous Burlington Route?

We'll gladly accept your "Iron Horse" as part payment for brand-new Home Furnishings. Our Bargain Furniture Annex dotes on finding an outlet for re-conditioned furniture . . . that's why we can accept the "Old for the New."

May be now that the children are married and moved . . . you want the carefree comfort of a modern apartment.

That deep, roomy broad divan that was the love of your life just won't fit into your space-saving studio efficiency. Nothing but a Chippendale or Tuxedo Love Seat has a place.

Come select the Home Furnishings you wish . . . tell us what old furniture or room sized rugs you no longer need. We'll be pleased to exchange "the Old as part payment for the New."

Rich's Semi-Annual Home Furnishings Sale is coming soon. An event that eclipses all past performances in Quality, Style and Price. The time was never better for exchanging "Old Furniture in part payment for New."

NEW YORK, July 24.—Picture people are pretty darn good, and their

This is Mary Pickford's opinion, offered in defense of Hollywood's series of matrimonial smash-ups, including her own.

Petite and blond and young-looking, with wide-open sparkling brown eyes, the famous cinema queen, author and producer, greeted the interviewer in her tower suite at the Waldorf-Astoria. She was wearing dainty blue lounging pajamas and gold kid sandals.

As to the Douglas Fairbanks and Lady Ashley romance, Miss Pickford quickly dismissed the subject with the "No, I do not mind answering these questions. I am as used to it as I am to breathing—but let's get back to Hollywood. I want to tell you more about it.

"The world likes to make a hullaba-too about unhappy homes and divorces, but forgets about the 90 per cent which hold together. Too much lime-light is a destroyer of happiness today. Even a bird will not remain on its nest if you turn the searchlight on full force.

"Some day I would like to switch the searchlight on other communities just as people do on Hollywood, and see what happens. Also, some day I would like to line up 50 average men and 50 average women, marry them to one another, and one year later have the privilege of using an X-ray on their private lives. I am sure many sensational happenings would be revealed, just as sensational as any ever found in Hollywood.

"When you consider the ease and comfort and fame which surrounds picture people, I maintain they are a well behaved lot. What would you do if you lived in a land of make believe and Continuing her analytical trend of thought, Miss Pickford expressed the opinion that women should not dwell too much on disappointments of the heart. In her opinion, the intelligent women of today occupies herself with things worth while, keeps in contact with the outside world, and hasn't time or inclination to be an old-fashioned "cry baby" when her heart gets nicked.

Reagin filed his petition yesterday with the clerk of the Fulton county superior court through his attorney, Alex

He set out that as a licensed carrier in Georgia, he pays mileage taxes on all the beer he hauls under contract with the Atlanta Ice & Cold Storage

He petitioned that his drivers should not be arrested and that no criminal procedure be instituted against him for nonpayment of the mileage tax while hauling empty cases.

NIP NUMBERS RACKET

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., July 24. (AP)—An attempt to establish the numbers racket in St. Petersburg was frustrated, police believe, with the arrest yesterday of a white man and five negroes and seizure of a quantity of alleged sales pads.

Customers, police say, were promised a 600 to 1 shot in guessing the last three figures of daily clearing house statistics.

TANGLED LOVE-

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

Synopsis of preceding installments: Noel Stuart and his sister, Beatrice, live with their Aunt Jessica in an old house on Stuart Island overlooking the Potomac. The girls' only income is from their old Baltimore home, made over into studios, and the aunt plans to marry into the family of the Baltimore house. Noel becomes friendly with Scott Court and Ned Wilson, young writers, and Linda Varley, artist, who doesn't know that Scott, Ned and Stephen were college chums and when Scott and Ned arrive unexpectedly she orders Noel to leave for inviting "such people" to her house. Linda takes her in. Scott is greatly attracted to Noel and she frankly tells him she loves him. When Stephen returns from New York with his father, Deems Gordon, who is divorced, Aunt Jessica learns of the friendship of Scott, Ned and Stephen and sends for Noel. When Scott's first novel is accepted by an editor, Noel becomes engaged. Noel tells him she understands when he tries to explain that he is dazzled by Linda's beauty. Aunt Jessica dies, willing all to Noel. The girls are the Gordon's guests for a time but Noel goes to Linda to hunt a job. Linda and Ned marry, and the same day Stephen proposes to Noel. She accepts, and when Beatrice returns from Paris she comes to New York. Noel visits her and meets Mr. Deems, magazine editor. She writes for Stephen and Deems. A night club tour keeps them busy till dawn. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"Don't be so tragic about this," said Beatrice. "I understand perfectly. But will it hurt you if I tell you I don't think it's a good idea? Marriage these hectic modern days is difficult enough when two people love each other. When they don't, it's even more difficult."

Noel looked away miserably. Beatrice leaned over and touched her hand.

"But I'm not going to voice any disapproval. My son doesn't take anything very seriously. Few boys do when they're never had to work or worry about anything. Are you ready to take the risk that he'll fall in love with somebody else?"

"Yes."

"You are a serious child," Howie lowered her eyes and asked, "How is Mr. Gordon?"

"Deems?"

"You call him Deems?"

Beatrice's eyes met hers in profound honesty.

Noel smiled. "I'm afraid he's been matchmaking."

"He used his usual good taste," said Beatrice and changed the subject. "Forgive me for trying to go into too many subjects your first night here. I warn you, I shall keep you on the go continually. New York is new to me after all these years and invitations have been coming in from old friends who haven't forgotten. I lived here several years. Get some sleep tonight, and tomorrow I shall take you about as Stephen's fiancée. Her eyes were warm and tender. "And proudly, Noel."

After two days, what little self-consciousness she had felt toward Stephen's mother vanished. Beatrice was like a young girl beneath the old-world culture.

They started the day by breakfasting together in Beatrice's room. They shopped, Beatrice lavishing clothes and gifts upon Noel. In the most famous dressmaking establishments Noel pulled off Elmore's clothes and was dressed according to the style. Beatrice thought best became her. Frocks—a little unusual to suit her unusual beauty. Sandals that were mere suggestions of shoes. Lingerie a wisecrack of sheerness.

In a famous beauty salon her face was patted and slapped until it glowed, a Frenchwoman put a wave in her hair, her nails became oval pink moons under expert care.

The best-known restaurants saw them—a stunning woman dressed in black and a slightly bewildered young girl with unusual eyes who looked about her as if she had just been plucked from a convent and was seeing the world for the first time.

"You don't realize how ignorant you are until you live in a life like this," she told Beatrice frankly over an exquisite table in one of Manhattan's most famous hotels. "I didn't even know which fork to use."

"Some girls," said Beatrice, lighting her Russian cigarette, "would be swept off their feet by this sort of thing. Your feet, Noel, are firmly planted on solid earth. I wish mine had been more firmly planted when I was younger. I would have forgiven instead of running away."

Deems, of course, if she had forgiven his infatuation for another woman, they would be together now and she would not be the tired though still beautiful woman who chased one new fancy after another.

"All this elegance," said Beatrice, continuing, "is not important to life. The simple things are important. I know, my dear. The simple things—love, home, good friends—are the foundation for a fine life. When you haven't them, you have to find a substitute. I tried to find it in pleasure and traveling."

"I have noticed," said Noel with her usual candor, "that people who think that pleasure is happiness have very miserable faces."

Beatrice smiled knowingly.

"How right you are! Are you frightened, Noel, of going to your first New York party tonight?"

"At parties I am always the most insignificant person in the room."

"You were perhaps, but not now. Beauty such as yours doesn't happen every day. It isn't on the surface. Tonight's party is for people who look beneath surfaces."

In the full length mirror, back at the hotel, Noel looked at herself in the dress Beatrice had bought her. It was of gold lame that brought out the warm tones of her skin. It hugged every line of her body and had a small train. Childishly Noel picked up the dress to see the little golden sandals.

Her dark hair lay against her head in tight flat waves, her mouth was curving, crimson. Her eyes with their

SALLY'S SALLIES

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

SIGHTS OF OLD LONDON.

IV—The Parliament Building.

Only a small part of what we call Greater London is known as "the city." In a curiosity cartoon, we might find this news:

"The young city of London, Ont., is the home of three and a half times as many people as the City of London, England."

That would be true, in a sense. Census figures in stone, a few years ago gave London, Ont., a population of 71,000, while only 20,000 persons lived in the City of London, England.

One of the great sights of London is the building which holds the house of parliament. It has been called "the city in stone," and is indeed one of the beautiful public buildings of the world. It lies alongside the River Thames.

The building has three towers. One is 240 feet high. Another tower contains Big Ben, the famous four-faced clock which has told time for Englishmen for more than three-quarters of a century.

A bell weighing 13 and one-half tons booms forth the strokes of the hours. Care is taken to have the bell strike the proper number of times, but in one case—that night—we are told that it struck 13 times, a joke on Big Ben.

Except for Westminster hall, which dates back eight and a half centuries and which now forms a minor part of the houses of parliament, the building was set up between the years 1840 and 1850.

The house of commons and the house of lords are in the parliament building. Members of the house of commons are chosen by popular vote and make laws for the nation.

The house of lords is composed of nobles, bishops and archbishops. Until recent times, it was a powerful group, but most of its power has been taken away.
